"Consistency, thou art a jewel," but thy sparkling is unknown in the Council Bluffs office of the Omaha Republican.

The county board, while in session this week, should take steps to have the court house grounds fixed up in a manner worthy of so noble a structure.

A petition is being circulated among the Bluffs citizens, asking the county commissioners to locate a bridge over Indian creek on Twelfth street, between Broadway and Avenue A.

Marshall Gunella left last evening for Kansas City, where John Ford is under arrest for forging the name of Rosie Fisher and obtaining the latter's trunk under false pretenses. The marshal will return with the prisoner this evening.

John Bono & Co., the leading dry goods firm in Council Bluffs, is having a most favorable call for the celebrated Clark's O. N. T. Spool Cotton, particularly the "Fast Black." This cotton is only on white spools. Ask for the O. N. T.

To-night the subscribers to the Chautauque enterprise are to meet at the board of trade rooms for their annual meeting. This meeting is a very important one. Officers are to be elected, and decisions made as to the holding of the first assembly next year.

The Allen-Brooks prize fight is set for this week, and tickets have been placed on sale at several sporting places in the city. The match is for $50 a side and the winner takes two-thirds of the gate receipts. It is probable that the fight will take place on Iowa soil. Both parties are in active training, and are each equally confident of success.

It is claimed that no saloon is allowed to remain open after 11 o'clock at night unless a line of $50 per month is paid to the city clerk. If this is actually the case, there are a great many $50 bills dropped into the treasury of which no account is made. Receipts for these $50 fines are very scarce, but the open midnight saloons are very numerous. Please remove the cloud from Mr. Mayor, and explain why this is thus?

The city council meets to-night. The sewer bids, which have been tabulated by the engineer, will be considered. The contest is between Wickham and Judge James. Wickham's bid is lowest on pipes and James' bid is lowest on brick. On the aggregate Wickham is a little lower. The council has the disposition to divide the contract, thus gaining the lowest of each. Wickham protests, and insists on having the whole contract.

There was a large attendance at yesterday's ball game at Manawa Athletic park, between the Printers and the Council Bluffs club. The game was a very uninteresting one and remarkable for its errors. The Bluffs team won by a score of 17 to 2. The Printers' battery did fine work, but received no support whatever from the field. Wretched playing characterized both sides, and it was a relief when the exhibition came to an end.

Divine Sympathy.

At the Congregational church yesterday morning there was a communion service. The music was furnished by a male quartette, and Prof. de Normandie, presided again at the organ. In the absence of several months, Ill-health necessitated a trip eastward, with rest and recreation. By the way he handled the keys and pedals yesterday it appeared that he has regained his accustomed vigor and has lost none of his skill. The sermon yesterday morning by pastor Rev. G. W. Crofts, was on the subject, "The Sympathy of Christ." He showed the necessity of human sympathy. The command had been given to rejoice with those who do rejoice, and weep with those who weep. It was often difficult to rejoice with those who do rejoice. It was not always easy to be glad to see another more highly prospered than ourselves, and to rejoice at another's good fortune or success. Yet congratulations were pleasant to those who had the won a victory. Sweetest was the sympathy of sorrow. None could extend this sympathy like one who had experienced like sorrow. Humanity needed a divine, perfect, inexhaustible source of sympathy. It had it in Christ. Christ was the great sympathizer, because he came upon the same plane of humanity. He also went through like human experiences, and more than all he was deeply, personally interested in every one of his children.

At the close of the sermon there was the service of reception of new members.

A Sickly Sunday Last.

There was a sound of revelry last Saturday night at Drisbach's place on Main street, and soon after 12 o'clock a police call was sounded and the "candy store" was closed, as per the orders of the mayor in the matter of closing saloons on Sunday. This place is no saloon, and more, there has been no claim made that liquor is sold there at all. Of course the proprietor obeyed the executive order, but with the protest that other places, saloons and gambling places, were running in full blast and he alone was ordered to close his doors. Further investigation revealed the fact that several saloons on Broadway were still operating. The front doors were closed, but the side doors were open, and here entrance was effected by any who wanted a drink. The gambling dens were all open and running their games, while in front were the pluggers ready to capture any unlucky fellow who had a dollar and was too drunk to know it.

A saloon keeper, whose place has now a permanent injunction against it, said to THE BEE reporter: "This shows the whole business. What is a very silly mayor don't close the gambling houses? He makes us close up all right, and we keep orderly places, while at these other places—well, you know how it is as well as I do. What about the license? Why, they are not being paid at all, and the mayor isn't enforcing the law. There is a nigger in the fence somewhere, and I wish you would find out what it is. Perhaps some of THE BEE readers can give some information upon the subject."

For Sale.

Brutal Treatment of Prisoners.

An article appeared in the Council Bluffs department of the Republican yesterday morning denying the truth of the article in Saturday morning's BEE regarding the exhibition of brutality of the city jailer in the case of the two young bootblacks. It says "the write-up of the affair is clearly one of malevolence. It was only a desperate effort to create a prejudice against the mayor, and all other articles of value without removal. All business strictly confidential."

The fact of the matter is that there is plenty of good authority for the article in question. The two citizens referred to are Messrs. J. W. Squire and W. H. White. The former gentleman was seen yesterday, and he not only upheld the article as it appeared in THE BEE, but insisted that it was correct, and enough to set forth all of the disgusting features of the jailer's heartless inhumanity. The city marshal, under whose charge the city jail is kept, acknowledged that the treatment was wrong and said that it would not have been allowed if he had been present.

The Republican hoodwinked still further goes on to say that "if the paragraph in question had only injured into the hands of the city jailer, there is a possibility that he might not have drawn the 'long bow' to the extent he did."

JIE BEE man talked with several parties regarding the matter, the jailer among the number, and saw for himself the half-drowned boys in the institution, and let out of the cell into the sunlight. The facts of the case were not overdrawn nor distorted in the slightest degree, as the aforementioned citizens, who were present, are ready to testify. It was not claimed that the boys did not need punishment, but it was the brutal method employed, of which complaint was made.

Travelers! Stop at the Bechtels.

A party of half a dozen of the city sports went out to Big Lake Saturday night for a grand blow-out and jam-boree. There was considerable tangle-foot taken along, and toward morning the hilarity was at full tide. About daylight yesterday morning they returned to the city, and one of the party was a candidate for the services of a doctor. His scalp was laid open for four inches by a pistol bullet, and he was covered with blood. So many difficult cases of this kind occurred were told that it is impossible to tell which is the correct one.

The one generally accepted is that the victim, Ben Long, accidentally and unintentionally got in range of Dan Carriage's revolver, and the party said that Long fell overboard, and the others were trying to pull him into the boat the gun was discharged with the above result. It was first reported that it was not an accident, and the chief of police investigated the matter. He found Long sound asleep in bed with his head tied up, and the others refused to tell anything about it, except that it was an accident. Just how much of an accident it was will not probably be known until the interested parties get ready to tell it.

Long was able to be out last evening, and gave the following account of the affair: The party went out to the lake to fish. Some of them got to cooling their heels, and Long was compelled to jump overboard to prevent upsetting the boat. Shortly afterward Carriage decided to test his marksmanship by seeing how close he could shoot to the heads of his companions, and he hit them. He cut the rim of Mitchell's hat and then tried Long's. The latter had his back to the shooter, and the first he knew a bullet ploughed along the top of his head. The ball passed directly through the crown of his hat, tearing up the scalp. It was a very narrow escape. Dr. Bellingier, who dressed the wound, says that if the ball had gone the sixteenth of an inch lower it would have entered the skull and produced instant death. Carriage has always been very careless with his gun, and it is hoped that this lesson will prove salutary. It is an experience that no money would tempt a man to go through, and Long is very fortunate to be able to still take his meals regularly.

After arresting Baughman Saturday evening for the larceny of a chain from Robinson Bros' jewelry store, Chief

Lucas went over to Omaha to find the other parties implicated. He found his man and had him arrested, but the fellow refused to come back to this side of the river. This satisfied the chief that he had right man and he requested his detention. This morning Mr. Robinson will cross the river to identify the prisoner, and if he proves to be the right man, requisition papers will be secured and he will be brought over here.

So much time was consumed in perfecting these arrangements that the chief missed the last dummy and was compelled to walk home. He did not take kindly to the idea but it was the best he could do, as no teams could get across the bridge at that late hour. He arrived home about 5 o'clock in the morning. He hopes that the new motor line will be completed before he has to repeat the trip, as it is said that the ties for the motor track are placed just far enough apart to make walking easy, which is not the case with the Union Pacific dummy track.

The Bluffs Will Be There.

Yesterday afternoon the traveling men of this city held a meeting at the Ogden house parlors to consider the matter of taking part in the trades parade in Omaha on Thursday next. Mr. Dunn, representing Peregrine & Moore, was elected chairman.

A committee of the Omaha association were present. These were: M. Hayley, P. Redman, Will Roth and E. Lucas. The formal invitation was extended through this committee. Messrs. Morse, Sherman and Corbaley were appointed a local committee to arrange for a participation by the local traveling men.

All those who desire to take part will send their names to the committee, who will report them to the Omaha committee and have places assigned in the parade. The regulation uniform, silk hat and white flannel shirt, will be worn by all "dummers" who take part in the parade. The line will be formed between 9 and 10 o'clock, and all participants are requested to be on the ground a quarter before 9 o'clock.

The "boys" here are enthusiastic in the matter and they will doubtless see that in this, the grandest demonstration the west has ever had, Council Bluffs is fully represented.
